BIBLE TRIVIA

by Wilson Casey

1. Is the book of Acts in the Old or New Testament or neither?
2. From Acts 20:35, "That so laboring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words, it is more ... to give than to receive." Righteous, Understanding, Blessed, Bountiful
3. From Proverbs 14:23, "In all labor there is profit: but the ... of the lips tendeth only to penury"? Whispering, Closing, Talk, Howling
4. From Exodus 20:9, how many days shalt thou labor and do all thy work? Two, Four, Six, Seven
ANSWERS-->

• An armadillo's shell is so hard that it can deflect a bullet, as a Texas man discovered to his chagrin when he took aim at one. The bullet ricocheted into his jaw and he had to be airlifted to a hospital. The armadillo, on the other hand, strolled away unscathed.

Harvest Day

Read: Galatians 6:1-10

Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. Galatians 6:7

One autumn afternoon I drove past a field where a farmer had parked some massive machinery by the side of the road. A yellow caution sign read: "Harvest in Progress." As I glanced over at the field, I knew instantly what the farmer had planted several months ago—tiny kernels of corn. I knew this because he was preparing to drive his harvesting equipment through acres of mature cornstalks.

While it may seem obvious that planting corn leads to harvesting corn, we sometimes deny the relationship between sowing and reaping in our spiritual lives. The apostle Paul wrote, "Do not be deceived . . . ; for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap" (Gal. 6:7). Living to please our flesh yields corruption in the form of wanting what isn't ours, self-centeredness, and even substance abuse (5:19-21). Walking with the Spirit produces peace, kindness, and self-control (5:22-23). By God's grace, we can choose to "sow to the Spirit" and reap eternal life (6:8).

Suppose Jesus declared today "harvest day" in our lives, and He asked us to gather up the yield of our everyday choices over the past year. What would we have to show Him? By Jennifer Benson Schuldtt Things of the world often pull at my heart, But, Lord, help me see the end from the start; Open my eyes to where my life's going, What I will reap from all I've been sowing. —K. DeHaan
 The seeds we sow today determine the kind of fruit we'll reap tomorrow.

Recipe Corner

3/4 cup light corn syrup
 1/4 cup margarine
 2 teaspoons cold water
 2 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
 1 cup marshmallows
 5 quarts plain popped popcorn
 Optional: Candy Corn, toffee pieces (or other non-melting candy), dried apple bits or other dried fruit)
 • In a saucepan over medium heat, combine the corn syrup, margarine, cold water, confectioners' sugar and marshmallows. Heat and stir until the mixture comes to a boil. Carefully combine the hot mixture with the popcorn, coating each kernel. If adding candy/fruit, add and quickly mix through. Grease hands with vegetable shortening and quickly shape the coated popcorn into balls before it cools. Wrap with cellophane or plastic wrap and store at room temperature.

Popcorn Balls

16 individually wrapped caramels, unwrapped
 1/4 cup water
 8 ounce package cream cheese
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 • In a medium saucepan over medium-low heat, or in the microwave, melt caramels with water, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. In a medium bowl, cream together cream cheese and sugar. Fold in caramel mixture. Serve immediately.

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Decisions, Decision, Decisions - So Many Options Available at this Time! (Part 1 of 2)

I have been accused by my family members of being able to have a conversation with just about anyone I meet. I have to admit, they're probably right, because I truly find people are fascinating. Everyone has a story to tell based on their own individual experiences according to the choices they've made in life. I've found that regardless of whether the subject is education, occupation, faith, parenting, military service, the weather, or whatever else; you can probably find some commonalities between your life experiences and someone else's who you are talking to in order to get the conversation started, and from there it's the differences that make each person unique, interesting, and worth listening to and learning from. Back in August, I saw a church marquee sign in West Middlesex that kind of sums up my thoughts on people and why I like talking to others, it read: "Be Yourself - Everyone Else is Already Taken."

Now, when it comes to the outdoors, it's fairly easy to identify when someone is a hunter; but through conversation you can find out what types of quarry they like to pursue (species), where they like to hunt (locations), methods they choose to employ (rifle, shotgun, bow, crossbow, muzzleloader), gear they prefer (clothing, tree stands, optics, etc.), the tactics they use (stand hunting, still hunting, stalking, calls, scents, etc.), who they hunt with, and a myriad of other hunting-related details. While everyone (men, women, and youths) who purchases a PA hunting license can be correctly labelled as a hunter, no two hunters are exactly alike and that probably becomes most apparent within the upcoming week as the widest variety of hunting seasons open at the same time as at any point in the entire year and hunters must prudently decide how they'll individually spend the limited time available pursuing the species of their choice and how they go about it. Let's take a closer look at the many options available to choose from. Muzzleloader Antlerless Deer (Oct. 17-24) - Hunters can use either a modern inline muzzleloader, a percussion cap rifle, or a traditional flintlock muzzleloader to harvest an antlerless deer with each valid antlerless license or DMAP permit they obtained.

Muzzleloader Bear (Oct. 17-24) - This will be the second year for this tremendously popular season, when hunters can use an inline, percussion cap, or flintlock muzzleloading rifle to get an early opportunity to pursue a black bear across the Commonwealth in October's typically milder weather.

Archery Bear (Oct. 17 - Nov. 7) - This year, bowhunters will have three weeks in which black bears are legal quarry with a compound bow, crossbow, recurve bow, or long bow. You might want to purchase a black bear tag, just in case a bear comes through while you are out archery deer hunting this year. Small Game (Specifically - Rabbits, Grouse, & Bobwhite Quail) (Oct. 17 - Nov. 27) - For those hunters with dogs, these are some of the most anticipated seasons and often small game hunters can have the woods and/or fields all to themselves, since participation has dwindled over the past 35-years.

Ducks, Sea Ducks, Coots, and Mergansers (South Zone) (Oct. 17-24) - We reside in the designated South Zone of Pennsylvania, south of Interstate 80, for the purpose of hunting these varieties of waterfowl. Please check the 2020-21 PA Hunting & Trapping Digest to verify the daily bag limits and possession limits, which are very specific by species. Accordingly, waterfowl hunters need to be very proficient at duck identification in flight. (Note: Woodcock also become legal quarry statewide for migratory bird hunters from Oct. 17 - Nov. 27.)

Special Firearms Antlerless Deer and Bear (Oct. 22-24) - These have become some of the most highly anticipated seasons, since junior & senior license holders, active-duty military, and certain disabled persons' permit holders can use their modern firearms to harvest an antlerless deer with each antlerless license or DMAP permit they have or a black bear, if they've purchased a bear license. The early three-day rifle bear season for select individuals debuted last year and made a significant impact on the overall 2019 PA bear harvest as numerous eligible hunters took advantage of this opportunity in milder weather.

Already Open Seasons - Hunting seasons for numerous species are already open as of October 17 and many hunters will continue pursuing the quarry of their choice. This includes: archery deer, squirrels, doves, coyotes, opossums, skunks, weasels, porcupines, and crows. Please check your 2020-21 PA Hunting & Trapping Digest for specific details applicable for each species.

It's a tough choice, but enjoyable, whatever you pursue! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I know it's a running joke that cats rule people and not the other way around. But if cats can't stand people, how did they become domesticated in the first place? – Trisha G., San Bernadino, California
DEAR TRISHA: While cats seem aloof and rarely fawn over people in the same way that dogs do, they do love their humans. They express their devotion in ways that are weird to us – like quietly placing a dead mouse in front of us and sitting expectantly until their triumph is acknowledged. Or, like bumping their forehead against our hand, or even our nose. Or meowing incessantly when we're in the bathroom, worried that we will never come out.

When cats were domesticated – scientists think that happened about 12,000 years ago – they approached humans for much the same reasons that dogs did. There was food available. Cats, like dogs, earned their keep: dogs by keeping watch over their humans, and cats by protecting their food. When humans developed agriculture and began storing grain, rodents became the bane of their existence. Cats, on the other hand, saw a smorgasbord of tasty rats on the menu. Over time, they became domesticated, and our symbiotic existence was cemented.

Cats were revered by ancient societies. Their behavior – as territorial hunters who move quietly and strike quickly – probably did not need to change as dramatically as wild dogs' behavior had to evolve. ©2020 King Features

Now Here's A Tip by JoAnn Derson

* "I purchased a set of cork coasters from a discount store to use as floor protectors for a couple of heavy plant stands I keep inside the house. They were easy to attach with a small piece of double-sided tape, and I was able to use a few together, cut to fit exactly, for the largest ones." - J.W. in Virginia

• Here's a saltshaker tip: If your salt clumps (too much moisture) or comes out too fast (too many or too-large holes), you can solve it with rice! Simply fill about a quarter of the jar with uncooked white rice, and the rest with salt. It both absorbs excess moisture and keeps the salt from pouring out of the shaker too fast.

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne
• Levi's once made an all-denim tuxedo for singer Bing Crosby after he was refused admittance to a hotel simply for wearing jeans.

• In early 2016, a
155-year-old mousetrap caught a mouse in a British museum. The trap
was part of the exposition and hadn't even been considered operational for a long time.
