Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• Empty tissue boxes have so many uses. Try lining one with a plastic grocery bag and keeping it in your car for stray trash. Or you can use it to corral all of those plastic grocery bags until you need them – just stuff them in one at a time. Lastly, and probably my favorite: Cut out doors and windows to use as houses for kids' toys. Imagination makes the possibilities endless.

Paws Corner

by Sam Mazzotta

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have two guinea pigs. Yesterday, I took them outside to get some sun. When I came back outside about 15 minutes later, they were both lying in their cage, completely stiff, as if they had been dead for hours. I brought them inside and was getting everything ready to bury them when one of them stirred very slowly. Today, they are not as active, aren't eating and only taking a little water when I give it to them through a dropper. Will they be OK? - Analia R., via email

DEAR ANALIA: Guinea pigs, also known as cavies, cannot regulate their body temperature very well. They should never be put into direct sunlight or a hot room. Your pets suffered heat-stroke even though it was just a few minutes. This is most often fatal. I'm very surprised that they are both alive.

They need to be treated very gently for the next several days. Contact a veterinarian who specializes in exotic pets, but do not bring them until the vet tells you to do so. Moving them can be very stressful. Continue gently giving them water through a dropper or syringe a few drops at a time. Place little bits of cucumber, lettuce or melon nearby; these have high water content and some nutrients.

Cavies are extremely sensitive to sudden temperature changes, loud noises or rough handling. Be gentle with them and keep them in a comfortable location, out of direct sunlight. ©2021 King Features

Make the Right Choice, Since You're Betting Your Life on It! (Part 1 of 2)

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" Chances are extremely high someone asked you that question when you were a child and there's a good probability, if you're an adult, you may have made the same inquiry to a child at some point. Young boys and girls have always had a plethora of adorable responses, which run the gamut when it comes to occupations, positions, and titles. Some of those I've heard over the years include: astronaut, doctor, teacher, farmer, princess, and the list goes on and on.

On a sobering note, you know one response I've never heard from a single child at any point in my entire life? I've never heard one solitary boy or girl say they want to be a statistic. Tragic as it is, every day otherwise sensible men and women who have a lot to live for, make the conscious decision to get in a motor vehicle and not wear their seat belt. Then in a matter of mere seconds, they become involved in an accident and their life is cut short because they failed to buckle up. Research has shown traffic accidents are one of the primary causes of death in individuals ages 13 to 50 and more than 50% of those fatalities could have been prevented had the individual been wearing their seatbelt. Through driver education and pervasive public safety campaigns, such as "Click It or Ticket", seat belt use today has significantly improved from what it was 41-years ago when I started driving. Fastening your seat belt every time as a driver or passenger goes a long way in preventing you from becoming a highway fatality statistic.

You know what I also find maddening? While it's not obvious from outside a passing vehicle whether or not its occupants are wearing their seatbelts, it's usually blatantly apparent whether or not another individual is wearing a life jacket / personal flotation device / life preserver (call it whatever you wish) when they are out in a kayak, canoe, or boat on the water. The harsh statistics speak for themselves, some 80% of boating fatalities happen to boaters who are not wearing a life jacket. Just like a seat belt greatly increases your chances of survival in a motor vehicle accident, a life jacket increases your chances of surviving an unexpected entrance into the water when out boating even more so. I know several individuals who wouldn't think of starting their vehicles without buckling up first, but will routinely get in or on their kayak, canoe, or boat without having their life jacket on and kind of give it "a wave of the hand" and say, "we have it covered, our life jackets are on-board, they're stored over here or there."

Guess what?! In a sudden, unexpected trip into the water from either capsizing (due to the wind, a wave, another boat's wake, hitting a rock or submerged log, etc.) or falling overboard; you don't have time to retrieve and put on a life preserver before you're suddenly in the water and dealing with your unexpected plight. Soon after I started driving at 16, I was on a white-water rafting trip on the Lehigh River with our Explorer Post and we came around a bend in the river to find another party ahead of us dealing with an accidental drowning. Seeing that individual's submerged body underwater mere yards away and knowing what had started out as an enjoyable day on the river would tragically result in a man in the prime of life never returning home to his loved ones burned a memory into my brain I cannot forget.

You will not find a photo of me in a kayak, canoe, or small boat (and I have hundreds from over the years) regardless of the time of year, temperature, water level, or weather conditions on a lake, river, or stream, where I am not wearing a life jacket. I just won't do it, because of all the potential "What If's" that could potentially happen while on the water. Last September, when we were boating at Lake Wilhelm, we watched a grandfather and his teen-aged granddaughter enjoying a beautiful day kayaking, while both of them had their life jackets securely bungy corded to their kayaks behind their seats, instead of wearing them. While nothing happened to them that day, a similar set of circumstances developed the same weekend to a young couple over in Ohio. They unexpectedly fell off their sit upon kayaks (where their life jackets were secured.) and when the wind carried their kayaks away from shore, they initially swam after them. When they realized they couldn't catch up to their drifting boats, they decided to swim back to shore a few hundred yards. Tragically, the young man became exhausted and subsequently drowned.

We'll continue this important conversation on life preservers next week. Now, I'd like to wish everyone a Happy Easter as we celebrate the Resurrection of our Savior, Jesus Christ! None of us are going to make it out of this life alive and your individual relationship with Jesus will determine your eternal destination. Why not learn the true Easter message this year for yourself? God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors! ©WBB 2021

by JoAnn Derson

• Use mismatched socks to protect glass items when transporting them from place to place, or even in storage.

• Refillable spray bottles work best for cleaners.
Refills can be economical, they put less waste in the system, and here's one more reason: less propel-lants used, which can be a serious irritant to lungs.
Purchase an attractive bottle, and then look up some recipes for eco-friendly cleaners. You might be surprised how well they work and how great they smell! ©2021 King Features Synd., Inc

Philippians 2:9-11

Therefore God exalted him to the highest place and gave him the name that is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue acknowledge that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

Our Daily Bread

Resurrection Reality

Today's Scripture: Luke 24:1-12

I am He who lives, and was dead, and behold, I am alive forevermore. Revelation 1:18

The disciples and early followers of our Lord asserted with a zeal born of heartfelt conviction that Jesus of Nazareth was a living Savior, not a martyred teacher and philosopher. They held this truth so dear that they were willing to suffer torture and death rather than renounce it.

This startling message so electrified their ministry that their testimony "turned the world upside down" (Acts 17:6). It is still true today: The Holy Spirit honors the witness of those who proclaim the resurrected Jesus. They do not point primarily to moral codes, religious rituals, or theological creeds (good as these may be in themselves), but to the living God-man who alone can save. It is to Him who is "alive forevermore" (Revelation 1:18) that we should look in these days of dead orthodoxy and spiritual apostasy.

A proud and ungodly professor said to a young child who believed in the Lord Jesus, "My dear little girl, you don't know whom you believe in. There have been many Christs. In which of them do you believe?" "I know which one I believe in," replied the child. "I believe in the Christ who rose from the dead!"

Jesus is alive (Luke 24:1-12). Your eternal life depends on it. By: Henry G. Bosch

Although our Lord was crucified, He rose up from the grave; He paid our penalty for sin, Then showed His power to save. Spier Christ's resurrection assures what Calvary secures.
