DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Your recent answer on whether cats can get COVID-19 is correct: There is very little data, and only a few recorded cases, of house pets testing positive for this coronavirus. But I think that a much higher risk for cats is when they're allowed to roam outside. Not only can they be exposed to feline diseases like FIV, but the critters they catch, like small lizards and songbirds, may also carry diseases. – Greg, via email
DEAR GREG: That's absolutely right, as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention mentions on its website.

I've written frequently about the risks faced by cats that are allowed to roam outdoors – from being struck by ve-

Outdoor cats also are direct threats to other wildlife. While feral cats certainly are part of the problem, we can at least keep our housecats from contributing to the number of small critters killed each year.

If you've got a cat that insists on being outside, find a compromise: perhaps a screened en-

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

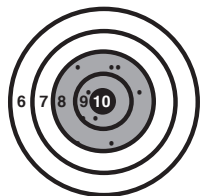

• If a glass breaks, here's a tip to get up those tiny glass shards that are impossible to pick up or sweep up: Use the inside of a slice of white bread, wadded up. No bread? You also can use a blob of play dough.

• "Label storage bins on all sides so that no matter how you stack them, or which direction you shove them in, you can always see at a glance which are which. Recently, I went searching through my attic for a particular box, and several boxes were moved out of the way. I had to spend much more time turning them to face the right way so that the labels would be visible." – R.F. in Ohio

• "Establish a family lost and found for small items that are discovered in places where they don't belong. It can be as simple as socks or hairbrushes to money and electronics." – P.O. in Virginia

Outdoor Opportunities By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Make the Right Choice, Since You're Betting Your Life on It! (Part 2 of 2)

For several decades, before he sold his business and retired, my maternal grandfather, Sherman Kline, owned and operated the sole ready-mix concrete company in Mifflin County, PA. Around 1970, shortly after I learned to read, someone found a witty bumper sticker, "Concrete people are mixed up and set in their ways" and gave it to him as a gag gift. Unfortunately, my personal experience in life has shown that it's not just concrete people who are "mixed up and set in their ways," but a significant number of folks of all ages from all walks of life. Take for instance, the matter of wearing life jackets in your kayak, canoe, or boat. I once overheard a teenager make the comment to his friend out on the water, "I never wear a life preserver. My dad and my grandad have been boating and fishing all their lives and they've never needed them, so why should I wear one?" I was sorry to hear that young man's decision on such an important matter was influenced by the repeated bad example modelled by his own family members.

Now, if I had to answer the boating question, "On average, how many days a year are you out on a kayak, canoe, or boat?", and the possible answers are: (A) Zero, (B) 1-9 days, (C) 10-25 days, and (D) > 25 days: I would have to respond "C", which is a considerable, but not overwhelming portion of my time. Given the amount of time I've spent out on the water over the years, which is significantly less than many other folks, I've still witnessed several boating accidents in that timespan where other people suddenly found themselves in the water and needed to unexpectedly "swim for it". It was roughly 50/50 on whether those individuals were wearing their life jackets and fortunately, for those not wearing their life jackets, there were other boaters nearby to immediately render assistance. In the cases on the Allegheny and Susquehanna Rivers, the obstacles encountered were large rocks, while on the Shenango River, Shenango River Reservoir, and Lake Erie's Presque Isle Bay, the culprits were submerged logs barely visible from the surface. Those rocks and logs didn't care if the watercraft was a $300 kayak or a $100,000 cabin cruiser; they caused boaters to unexpectedly end up in the water after the collision, and in the cabin cruiser's case, the log tore a significant gash in the hull causing it to partially sink in the bay.

As I shared last week, the mantra from the PA Fish & Boat Commission (PFBC) is "Always wear your life jacket while boating," since some 80% of boating fatalities happen to boaters who are not wearing a life jacket. I'm fully aware I'm not going to change the minds of many life-long recreational boaters who believe as long as they have their life vests onboard, they have it covered. (Somehow, suddenly ending up in the water via a boating accident and having to swim for their lives because they weren't wearing their life preservers and barely making it has a way of changing their minds.) So, please allow me to address the following comments to the hundreds in our area and thousands across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of new recreational boaters who have acquired their first kayak, canoe, or boat either over the past few years or more recently during the COVID-19 pandemic and corresponding lockdown.

If you're a new boater, please get started in recreational boating (whether you purchased your first kayak, canoe, or boat) on the right foot and always wear your life jacket when out on the water! The PFBC drives this fundamental safety principle home by covering the important topic of life jackets on Pages 19, 41, 42, and 57 of the free 2021 PA Fishing Summary/Boating Handbook and there are colorful photos on Pages 19, 36, 40, 53, 57, and the back cover to drive this point home. All boaters (regardless of what type of watercraft you paddle or operate) should pick up and read the PA Boating Handbook portion, Pages 36 - 59, to fully understand "the rules of the road" when out on the water. Additionally, on the back side of every PA boat registration, the PFBC puts a life jacket reminder to "Make sure your life jacket fits" (that way, it functions properly in an emergency and your life preserver actually preserves your life). The PFBC also has a website: www.WearItPennsylvania.com, which all recreational boaters should check out for additional information and give serious consideration to making the personal commitment and signing the Wear It Pennsylvania pledge card to always wear your life jacket.

Don't be one of those individuals who are "mixed up and set in their ways" when it comes to always wearing your life jacket, because if you don't have it on when that time comes when you unexpectedly end up in the water, you might just sink underwater like a piece of concrete and become an accidental drowning victim. Please value your own life more than that. God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• Do you store plastic wrap in the refrigerator? Many home experts will tell you that storing plastic wrap in your fridge or freezer can help with the stickiness factor – the plastic is easier to manipulate and get into place when cold, but still stays put. Try it and see!

• From L.D.W. in Illinois: "When I have a recipe, I put all the ingredients on the counter, and as I use each one, I put it away. My daughter and daughter-in-law like the idea, as they at one time or another, have forgotten an item." I like that one, too, L.D.W. A well-prepared cook makes a delicious meal.

Our Daily Bread

Genuine Love • Read Romans 1:18-32
Let no corrupt word proceed out of your mouth, but what is good for necessary edification. Ephesians 4:29
Nobody likes to be criticized. It hurts even worse when it comes from someone who talks about us behind our backs. In Romans 1:29-30, Paul called such people "whisperers" & "backbiters." He listed them among the proud, murderers, inventors of evil, Godhaters, & the like.

Whisperers are gossipers who secretly spread rumors, and backbiters are those who talk spitefully about a person. Tragically, some Christians are guilty of these sins. They wouldn't run people down with their cars, but they willingly "run them down" with their words, belittling what they do or say.

People who engage in these destructive acts don't see the inconsistency of their behavior and haven't taken to heart the words of the apostle Paul: "Let love be without hypocrisy" (Romans 12:9). Or, as one translator has paraphrased it, "Don't fake love."

We need to repent of our gossip and replace it with what John Stott calls "holy gossip." That is, we need to talk enthusiastically about the transforming work that Christ is doing in people's lives. For example, "Have you noticed that Joe is a completely changed person since he gave his life to Christ?" Or, "I certainly see the Lord at work in Susan!" How genuine is your love? By:
Joanie Yoder

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne

• The mostly unknown second and third verses of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" reveal the song was originally written as a feminist anthem about a woman wanting to go see a baseball game rather than go on a date to a show.

• In the Middle Ages, the "shrew's fiddle" or "neck violin" was used to punish those who were caught bickering by linking them face-to-face, forcing them to talk to each other. They weren't released until their disagreement was resolved.

• There is a Fictitious Athlete Hall of Fame. Inductees include Rocky Balboa, Mr. Miyagi and Happy Gilmore.

• Thought for the Day: "I had a new vision in front of me, and I always feel that if I can see it and believe it, then I can achieve it." – Arnold Schwarzenegger
