Paws Corner

by Sam Mazzotta

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Recently, a new member joined our family: a toy poodle mix named Petey who was rehomed by an acquaintance who said they just couldn't handle him and that he was untrainable. Petey is 4 years old, bounces everywhere, and loves to play soccer by catching a ball and then bouncing it off of his front paws back toward me. He's incredibly smart, but training him has indeed been a challenge. I know the previous owners never made an effort to train him in basic obedience, and they left him alone for days at a time. His house-training is spotty. How can I make the training process faster and easier for both of us? – Doug L., Burlington, Vermont

DEAR DOUG: You've taken on a real challenge: a smart, independent and energetic dog. Petey sounds like a wonderful little guy, though, and I'm so glad you've added him to your family and committed to his well-being.

Building trust with Petey is important so that he knows what to expect from you and the rest of the family. Do that by adhering to a schedule: walks, feeding and training at the same time each day, with as little deviation as possible.

Obedience-training a smart and independent dog requires you to be smart about training, too. Petey needs to know the house rules, and he must want to do the things you're asking him to do. Look into positive reinforcement methods like clicker training. Commit to a consistent training regimen so that desirable behaviors are reinforced and negative ones are discouraged. Work with a trainer if you are still struggling with Petey after a few weeks.

Our Daily Bread

The Growth Chart Grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

—2 Peter 3:18

Read: 2 Peter 3:10-18

If my family ever moves from the house where we live now, I want to unhinge the pantry door and take it with me! That door is special because it shows how my children have grown over the years. Every few months, my husband and I place our children against the door and pencil a mark just above their heads. According to our growth chart, my daughter shot up 4 inches in just 1 year!

While my children grow physically as a natural part of life, there's another kind of growth that happens with some effort—our spiritual growth in Christlikeness. Peter encouraged believers to "grow in the grace and knowledge" of Jesus (2 Peter 3:18). He said that maturing in our faith prepares us for Christ's return. The apostle wanted Jesus to come back and find believers living in peace and righteousness (v.14). Peter viewed spiritual growth as a defense against teaching that incorrectly interprets God's Word and leads people astray (vv.16-17).

Even when we feel discouraged and disconnected from God, we can remember that He will help us advance in our faith by making us more like His Son. His Word assures us that "He who has begun a good work in [us] will complete it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Phil. 1:6).

Dear God, I invite Your Holy Spirit to mold me into the person You want me to be. Empower me to keep reaching for the holiness I see in Jesus.

Spiritual growth requires the solid food of God's Word.

Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Folks Forget Fall Frequently Fuels Fantastic Fishing

Biology, like the other sciences, is full of unknowns and biologists are constantly seeking out answers to those perplexing questions. Take for instance, Fall officially arrives at 2:50 AM (EDT) on Saturday, September 23, 2023 with the Fall Equinox. Biologists have always debated whether it is the cooling temperatures, or photoperiodism (the response of an organism to seasonal changes in day length), or a combination of both, that drives birds to migrate south, the leaves to change color and eventually drop off the trees, and white-tailed deer to go into the Rut (their annual breeding season). Most people are aware of these "facts of Fall" when it comes to the birds, the leaves, and deer; but there is one Fall phenomena which many folks, and surprisingly many outdoorsmen, are not aware of and it's worth knowing about.

I can remember as a youngster hearing ladies at church talk about how wearing white after Labor Day is a fashion "faux pas". Today, most people abide by a more liberal attitude of "you do you" and individuals wear whatever color they're comfortable with whenever. You know what another thing is associated with Labor Day and a lot of folks still abide by? To many, Labor Day is the unofficial end of that year's boating/fishing season and after the first Monday in September, it's time to stay off the water. Now, that may seem silly, but this past Sunday, Sep. 17, my wife and I make a trip up to Greenville and when we crossed the PA-18 causeway over Shenango Lake by Tara in Clark, PA heading northbound; there was one solitary sailboat out on the entire lake to the east and only one motorboat out on the water to the west. A glance at the nearby NorthStar Marina to the east revealed docked boats filled just about every slip and not a soul was to be seen. That's unfortunate, because the other biological fact associated with Fall, which could be based on decreasing water temperatures, photoperiodism, or a combination of both is that in September, October, and November most species of game fish typically increase their feeding behavior to prepare for Winter when their activity levels and metabolisms slow substantially in much colder water.

Now, I completely understand how an outdoorsman, woman, or youth can get "tunnel vision" when it's finally hunting season. The days are limited, and each week seems to bring a different species into focus with only so many days available to head afield. In my humble opinion, Fall flies by way too quickly every year, since it is my favorite season and there are so many outdoor opportunities vying for our time and attention. I'm just saying, even though you're picking up your bow or firearm, it's not time yet to put away your fishing rod(s). You could be missing out on some of the best fishing of the year, if you don't take advantage of the Fall bite, and the fact you'll frequently have the water all to yourself on many days.

I learned about the Fall bite and the sheer joy of doing "combo days" when I was a teen. At our family property along the Susquehanna River, my Uncle Jack introduced me to hunting ducks at first light and then switching to our fishing gear after the first couple hours, all while keeping an "eye to the sky" for incoming mid-day waterfowl. Similarly, my dad and I would archery deer hunt early in the morning and in the evening, but pursue smallmouth bass during the mid-day hours. At the time, smallmouths over 16-inches were rare during the warm Summer months, except at night; however, smallies 16-inches and over were often the norm during our Fall fishing excursions because as I was told, they were aggressively feeding to "fatten up" for Winter. Over the decades, a number of my personal best fish of several species have come in Fall, often with a vibrant backdrop of colorful foliage and not another fisherman in sight.

I have a couple of friends who are avid fishermen, but they don't hunt, and they often tell me how Fall is the best time to head out when you have the water all to yourself and the fish are frequently cooperating by biting whatever lure or bait you're offering. I plan on dedicating a few days this Fall to solely fish, but like I saw modeled in my youth, I'm already planning on a few "combo days" with my own twist this year. So, if you see a canoe on the Shenango River with outriggers for stability and an occupant sporting an orange hat, shirt, and life preserver, that's only me on a float excursion fishing for smallmouth bass and catfish, while simultaneously hunting for squirrels. Similarly, if you see a jon boat out on the backwaters of Shenango Lake sometime between Oct 14-21 and the boater is wearing orange, there's a good chance it will be me fishing, while also keeping an eye to the shore to potentially fill my WMU 1A antlerless tag in our early muzzleloader season. Consider yourself now "in the know" when it comes to Fall fishing and the real potential for some of your best catches of the entire year! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors! ©WBB 2023

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson
• Making a smoothie with banana in it? When you're done with that peel, chop it up (you can use a rinsed-out blender bottle) and chuck the pieces in your garden to provide food to plants and beneficial bugs.
• Keep nail-polish bottles easy to open by rubbing a little bit of petroleum jelly inside the cap of the bottle.
