Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Don't Just Look, Really Observe What's Around You in the Woods and Also at Home

When I mention sitting motionless in the woods for 11-hours from 6:30 AM (before dawn) until 5:30 PM (dark) while hunting, some individuals inevitably ask, "Don't you get completely bored just sitting there doing nothing?" Nothing could be further from reality, because while I've dressed appropriately for the weather conditions to remain dry, warm, and comfortable with minimal movement, my mind is going "a mile a minute" as my eyes, ears, and nose are constantly taking in sights, sounds, and smells to help interpret everything going on around me. Nature never stops telling you something, if you know how to interpret all the incoming information your senses acquire and make sense of it as an active participant.

While you may immediately know I'm a deer hunter because of the fluorescent orange hat and vest I'm wearing afield, you may not realize while I'm outdoors I'm also simultaneously an amateur zoologist (one who studies animal behavior and biology), mammologist (studies mammals), ornithologist (studies birds), dendrologist (studies trees), entomologist (studies insects), and meteorologist (studies weather). Allow me to share a vignette of how that played out this past Sat., the middle Sat. of our PA regular firearms deer season. I'm blessed to have already filled my two WMU 1A antlerless tags with mature does: one on Sat., Oct. 26 in Mercer County with my muzzleloader and the second on Mon., Dec 2 in Lawrence County with a rifle. So, I decided to head up to southeastern Crawford County on Dec. 7, since I still have a WMU 1B antlerless tag and I've seen several very respectable bucks there before. There was 16-inches of recent snow when I arrived, so I waded through snow up to my knees on the way into a clump of Eastern Hemlock surrounded by a seven year-old timber harvest filled with an abundance of regrown saplings.

Shortly after sunrise, my brain went through the typical process of identifying over a dozen tree species in the forest around me. (Which can be somewhat difficult for even a trained eye, when you are observing only bark, branch patterns, and bud configurations and do not have leaves on the trees to work with.) As the sun's rays began to warm the air, the forest came alive with winter songbirds. Some of the "typical eight" flitted, chirped, and foraged all around me, which included: back-capped chickadee, white-breasted and red-breasted nuthatch, tufted titmouse, dark-eyed junco, pine siskin, American tree sparrow, and American goldfinch. The highlight came at 9:05 AM as a Fisher made its way through the woods only 45-yards away hunting for porcupines and other potential prey. Its lunging movements through the deep snow immediately caught my eye and I was blessed to observe only the third Fisher I've ever seen while hunting in PA. Shortly thereafter, a large barred owl landed in a hemlock only 20-feet in front of me.

Then a few common resident birds showed up: Northern cardinals (their red plumage is a dead giveaway at a distance), blue jays, and American crows. This was followed by audio identifications of some very interesting avian species in the distance: a pileated woodpecker, several ravens (with their more gurgling croak than a crow's caw), and a flock of snow geese passing overhead. The afternoon brought two species often not associated with the winter woods, but they are out there: a sizeable flock of American robins moved through, in addition to a handful of mourning doves. Even the songbirds in the forest have predators that pursue them. I saw a Cooper's hawk and a sharp-shinned hawk, both Accipters with short wings and long tail feathers for high-speed, high-mobility turns amongst the many trees pursuing prey. Both hawks fly with the familiar Accipter pattern of Flap-Flap-Glide. I also saw two of the more familiar Buteos (the soaring hawks): a red-shouldered hawk circled high overhead at one point and a red-tailed hawk made an appearance later. While I saw several deer in the distance, the abundant saplings and branches precluded any chance for a shot, and the coyote howling nearby at dark never materialized.

The great thing about being an active wildlife observer is you don't have to be a hunter to do it. Some of the best birders I know are "little old ladies in tennis shoes." My wife and I love watching the many birds at our feeders when we sit at our kitchen table. Bird feeders, bird identification books, spotting scopes, binoculars, and even bird feed all make great Christmas gifts for individuals of all ages and ability levels. One of my maternal grandmother's greatest joys well into her late 90's was watching "her birds" at the feeders just outside the window. Additionally, there are numerous websites and Apps to assist in the Bird ID process. (I like the free Merlin Bird ID App from Cornell Lab!) There's something very special about seeing and identifying God's amazing creation all around us! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

Our Daily Bread

Weighed Down At Christmas

Read: Luke 4:14-21 He has sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, . . . to set at liberty those who are oppressed. —Luke 4:18

During a December visit to New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art, I paused to admire the magnificent Christmas tree. It was covered with angels and surrounded at its base by an elaborate 18th-century nativity scene. Nearly 200 figures, including shepherds, the Magi, and a crowd of townspeople, looked in anticipation toward the manger or gazed up in awe at the angels.

But one figure appeared different from the rest—a barefoot man, who carried a heavy load on his back and looked at the ground. It struck me that this man, like so many people today, was so weighed down that he couldn't see the Messiah.

Christmas can be a difficult time for those who carry the burden of hard work, stressful family situations, and personal loss. But we should remember that Christ came into our world to lift up all those who are bowed down. Jesus used the words of Isaiah to announce His God-given mission on earth: "To preach the gospel to the poor; . . . to heal the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed" (Luke 4:18).

Jesus came to lift our burdens so we can raise our eyes to welcome Him at Christmas.

Help us, Lord, to give our burdens

To Your tender, loving care;

Grant us faith to trust You fully,

Knowing that each one You bear. —D. De Haan

To find true joy at Christmas, look to Jesus.

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• "Cornstarch is great for itchy, rashy skin. This is true for babies' bottoms and for doggy bellies, which is what I use it for. My pup is allergic to grass but loves to romp. Sometimes his belly gets red, and I clean it with a mild soap and water, then give him a cornstarch rub. It sure helps." – T.W. in Ohio

My Christmas Wish For You

To all my customers and their families... I want to thank you for your trust in me, for making me laugh sometimes and even cry sometimes, for sharing your life's stories, for making me feel happy that I have a job that is so rewarding in so many ways, for all your hugs and kisses, and of course, for your business. My prosperity comes from you, and I thank you with all my heart. I wish that your Christmas is Merry and that the New Year will bring you Faith, Hope, Happiness, and Good Health. I hope that my customers that have gone to Heaven this last year will be sharing Christ's Birthday with Him, and that they will tell Him that I hope that someday I, too, will be entitled to share such a glorified Holiday. May God bless you and yours and have a wonderful, Merry Christmas.

With Love, Donna
