DEAR PAW'S CORNER:

I don't see the point of vaccinating a pet, especially if they're kept inside for most of their lives. I've read that vaccines can cause more harm than good. It's not natural to vaccinate.

A dog or cat's immune system should be able to handle most diseases. So why bother to vaccinate? - Natural Pet Parent

DEAR NATURAL: You couldn't be more wrong. A pet's immune system is not an invulnerable shield against all attacks; it's a constantly adapting system that has to "learn" what microbes and viruses are threats and which are not. Unfortunately, some diseases cause serious illness or death before a pet's immune system can respond to them.

Part of what vaccines do is help a pet's immune system learn about specific threats without causing harm to your pet. Vaccines contain a safe, weakened or killed version of a pathogen; when injected, the immune system produces antibodies to specifically attack that pathogen - and they remember that in the future.

A disease like rabies, which is always fatal, is best fought off by a vaccine, which helps your immune system mount a frontline defense if a pet is exposed to it. For example, if a vaccinated cat is attacked and bitten by a rabid fox or raccoon, a veterinarian will give the cat a booster shot and monitor the cat in quarantine for 30 to 60 days. An unvaccinated cat who is attacked by a rabid animal might be euthanized immediately, or quarantined for up to 4 months.

Because there is no such thing as 100% prevention from exposure to various diseases, even your indoor pets need to have their core vaccinations.

Make Mexican Corn Family-Style

How about a quick word game with your kids? Start with "corn." There's corn on the cob, corn mazes, cornflakes, corn dogs, corny jokes. Keep going. You might even hear someone say "can of corn," referring to an easy catch at the baseball field.

This summer, I've been thinking about "Mexican street corn" (elotes), a lightly grilled and slightly charred corn on the cob typically slathered with mayo, rolled in crumbles of tasty cotija (pronounced ko-TEE-hah) cheese and chopped cilantro, then drizzled with fresh lime juice. A dusting of chili powder raises the heat, if you dare. The mix of flavors is dynamic and will be memorable at your next barbecue.

Many street corn recipes call for mixing the add-ons before spreading them onto the corn, but I prefer a buffet-style toppings bar to let each guest customize with their favorite textures and flavors.

Rather than cooking the husked corn on the outdoor grill, which takes time, skill and space, I opt for boiling it in a big pot on my stove while the main course cooks on the grill. Just before we eat, I set the boiled corn on the empty hot grill until it's lightly charred on all sides.

MEXICAN CORN FAMILY-STYLE Serves 6

- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 3/4 cup cotija cheese, crumbled (substitute with crumbled feta or Parmesan)
- 1/4 cup cilantro, chopped
- 1 jalapeño chili, seeded and finely chopped (optional)
- Chili powder (optional)
- 2 limes, cut in wedges
- 6 ears of fresh sweet corn, shucked

Set up the toppings bar next to a stack of dinner plates. Place mayonnaise, cheese, cilantro and chopped chili in bowls. Arrange in a row on a serving table with a shaker of chili powder and a plate of cut limes at the end. Set a brush by the mayo.

Boil or steam corn until tender. Remove corn from cooking pot, pat dry, and set on hot grill. Rotate with tongs for a few minutes.

Arrange on a large platter and set by toppings. Invite family and guests to take a dinner plate and begin by brushing the corn with mayonnaise. Press cheese and cilantro into the mayo. Add chilies or sprinkle with chili powder if desired, then drizzle all over with squeezed lime juice. Serve hot.

Serving tip for those who prefer eating corn removed from the cob: Secure the end of an ear of corn in the hole of an angel food cake pan. Slice down with a sharp knife to remove the kernels - they will fall directly into the pan.

Strange But True by Lucie Winborne

- Squirrels play a role in reforestation by forgetting some of the buried nuts and seeds they store, which then sprout into new trees.
- The Inuit people used goggles made from bone, wood or other hard material to protect their eyes from UV rays more than 2,000 years ago, designed to cover the eye while leaving a small slit to see through. The slit narrowed and sharpened the wearer's field of vision while protecting their eyes from snow glare. ©2025 King Features Synd., Inc.

Kovels
Antiques and Collecting by Terry and Kim Kovel

The third Sunday in July is National Ice Cream Day. Most of us would agree that ice cream is an indispensable part of summer. Who wouldn't recognize the jingle of an ice cream truck?

This ice cream vendor toy, which sold for $1,800 at Bertoia Auctions, has a slightly different, but still recognizable, image. The vendor drives a motorcycle instead of a truck, and the cart is labeled "Glace," which is French for "ice cream" and leaves no doubt about where the toy was made. It was manufactured by Jouet Mecanique Lyon, commonly shortened to JML, of Lyon, France. The company was active from the 1930s to about 1960 and is especially well known for its wind-up motorcycles.

In some ways, it is fitting for an ice cream vendor toy to come from a French company. While the origins of ice cream can be traced to the chilled desserts popular in Persia circa 550 B.C., and possibly even earlier in China, France had an important role in spreading the treat throughout Europe. Legend has it that Marco Polo introduced ice cream to Italy, and Catherine de' Medici brought it to France when she married the future King Henri II in 1533. By the 18th century, French chefs had modified the recipe and popularized it in Europe and the newly formed U.S. To this day, ice cream made with egg yolks is called "French," as in "French vanilla."

Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

So Far, 2025 has been Suboptimal for Paddling Enthusiasts, But There's Still Time

I'm not going to sugar-coat it. Up until this point in 2025, I've been out on the water in my kayak or canoe, significantly less than any other year since we moved to Lawrence County in 1998. By way of observation, I think it's not only me with noticeably less time wielding a paddle, because through the mid-point of 2025, I've seen significantly less kayaks and canoes going by on roof-top carriers or towed on trailers, than has been typical for our area. A high percentage of our population are avid paddlers.

As for the why, water conditions and weather play a significant part in why paddling participation has taken a perceptible downturn. Now, this may be oddly specific, but living along the Shenango River, I can state the river has been running above (and mostly well-above) its normal level ever since Thur., April 3, 2025. I know that for a fact because I was eagerly anticipating the PA 2025 Trout Opener on Sat., April 5, and things were looking good along Pulaski Township's Deer Creek until storms dumped a lot of rain in the Shenango River watershed and our local streams, creeks, and the river were extremely high and muddy come opening day. For the past three months, every time our waterways recede, we get more rain.

I'm never going to fault someone or something for doing their job. That's exactly what Shenango River Lake has been doing in 2025, much to the chagrin of many boaters and campers, who have been kept away from their desired pursuits on the reservoir, more than they would have wanted. Authorized by the Flood Control Acts of 1938 and completed in 1965, Shenango River Lake is operated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers – Pittsburgh District. Its purpose (along with 15 other similar district multi-purpose flood control reservoirs, such as Allegheny Reservoir, Tionesta Lake, etc.), is to proactively prevent downstream flooding in the broad Ohio River drainage. Whether you realize it or not, Shenango River Lake holds back water when necessary to prevent flooding in Sharon, New Castle, Beaver Falls, and every other municipality and rural area downstream of its imposing dam, only a mile above Sharpsville.

If you are interested, you can always call Shenango River Lake at (724) 962-7746 and follow the prompts to get current daily water level information. Back in mid-May, the reservoir peaked at 10-feet above normal Summer pool, which meant it was holding back millions of gallons of potential flood water. The controlled release of this held-back water through the dam's seven sluice gates is why the Shenango River has been running well above normal for several months. As an observational note, when you cross over the Shenango River on the PA-208 Bridge at Pulaski, if you look downstream and see that the island from the former mill dam is submerged, you know the river is running extremely high. At typical summer water-level, there is approximately one-foot of the concrete base at the foot of the Pulaski boat launch exposed. That concrete has not been above water very much in 2025. Correspondingly, kayak and canoe traffic at the Pulaski boat launch has been down significantly, up until this point in 2025. There have been very few paddlers either coming down from the West Middlesex boat launch or putting in at Pulaski to go downstream to the launches at Nashua Bridge or Harbor. At one point in mid-June, the water at Shenango River Lake was still 4-feet above Summer pool and it started July still over a foot above normal level.

In spite of my "home water" being less than ideal for paddling excursions in 2025, it doesn't mean I haven't been on the water at all. Back on May 24, the Saturday of Memorial Day weekend, my son and I determined we were going to put in some time in our kayaks, in spite of temperatures in the 50's and a steady westerly wind. We headed up to Lake Wilhelm at Goddard State Park in Mercer County and other than one fishing boat and one pontoon boat, we had the water all to ourselves. We put in at Launch #1 down towards the dam, and made our way northwest to the northern shoreline, paddling at a 45-degree angle to the chop on the water. During our 4-mile paddle over the next 90-minutes, we paralleled the northern shoreline down to the dam and then followed the southern shoreline back to our launch point. Our efforts were rewarded with awesome observations of bald eagles, ospreys, Great blue herons, cormorants, and tree swallows. Additionally, I recovered several lures and bobbers off of tree limbs and submerged logs. In spite of the steady wind and cooler temperature, we had a great day paddling together!

I want to wish everyone a safe and happy 4th of July! If you're on the water anytime during the remainder of 2025; always wear your life preserver, avoid alcohol until you're off the water, keep an eye on less experienced paddlers, and enjoy your excursions!

God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

••• Signs An AC Unit May Need To Be Replaced •••

Summer is a season of relaxation. Warm air, longer hours of daylight and vacations from school and work make summer a laid back time of year.

Many people enjoy the warmer air of summer, but it's important to have a cool place to retreat once temperatures become particularly warm. That means a well-cooled home with an air conditioning system operating at peak capacity. A new HVAC system can last between 15 and 25 years. Homeowners whose systems are at least a decade and a half old can keep an eye out for the following signs that an HVAC may need to be replaced.

- Higher energy bills: Energy costs can vary widely by location, but homeowners know that their energy bills have been on the rise for years. FirstEnergy estimated that energy costs for New Jersey residents in 2025 could increase by more than 19 percent by the middle of the year, a point in time when many Garden State residents begin using their air conditioning units every day. That can make it hard to gauge if higher energy bills are a reflection of market price increases or a unit that needs replacement. But higher energy bills could indicate a unit is not working efficiently, which is a telltale sign of an HVAC that may need to be replaced. Compare energy bills from a year ago to current bills, and then factor in the price increase. If energy consumption is on the rise compared to a year ago, that could indicate an HVAC unit is working less efficiently.

- A humid home: Humidity is a part of summer, but it's typically felt outdoors, not inside. A home with a humid interior while the AC is running could indicate a problem with the HVAC unit. According to HVAC.com, a functioning HVAC unit utilizes an evaporator coil to pull excess water vapor from the air in a home and drain it away from the home. If the air inside a home is humid, the unit might be having a mechanical issue that's preventing this important task from being performed.

- Frequent repairs: A telltale sign a unit needs to be replaced is the need for frequent repairs. Homeowners who are now on a first-name basis with their HVAC contractor may want to ask that professional if it's time to replace the unit. Money being spent on frequent repairs may be better repurposed toward financing the purchase of a new unit that could last as long as a quarter century.

- Poor air flow: An HVAC unit operating at peak capacity will produce a steady flow of cool air through the vents throughout a home. Poor air flow through those vents means it will take longer than normal to cool a home, and homeowners can put their hands near the vents to see how well or how poorly air is flowing through them. If air is flowing poorly, the unit will have to work harder to cool the home, which will contribute to higher energy bills.

A fully functional air conditioning system is vital in summer. Some telltale signs any homeowner can spot may indicate an existing HVAC unit needs to be replaced.

• Did you know you can curl your hair with straws? Wind sections of damp hair around a plastic straw and secure the ends with a bobby pin. Allow to dry in the sun or use a hair dryer on low heat. Remove and spritz with hair spray.
• "Necklaces can be stored together without tangling if you thread each one through a straw. You can cut the straw to a shorter length for bracelets or choker-length necklaces. No knots!" - I.A. in AZ

Strange But True by Lucie Winborne

• In late 1800's Australia, some desperate sufferers of rheumatism climbed into a whale carcass in their search for relief, and were told to remain there for 20-30 hours, with occasional breaks. The heat and gases emitted by the decomposing animal were believed to create a sweat box of healing compounds.

Our Daily Bread

Welcome Mat

Whoever welcomes one of these little children in my name welcomes me.
Mark 9:37

READ Mark 9:30-37

Browsing through the doormats displayed in my local big box store, I noted the messages stamped on their surfaces. "Hello!" "Home" with a heart for the "o." And the more customary one I chose, "Welcome." Putting it in place at home, I checked my heart. Was my home really welcoming the way God desires it to be? To a child selling chocolate for a school project? A neighbor in need? A family member from out of town who called on the spur of the moment?

In Mark 9, Jesus moves from the Mount of Transfiguration where Peter, James, and John stood in awe of His holy presence (vv. 1-13), to healing a possessed boy with a father who'd lost hope (vv. 14-29). Jesus then offered private lessons to the disciples concerning His upcoming death (vv. 30-32). They missed His point—badly (vv. 33-34). In response, Jesus took a child atop His lap saying, "Whoever welcomes one of these little children in my name welcomes me; and whoever welcomes me does not welcome me but the one who sent me" (v. 37). The word welcome here means to receive and accept as a guest. Jesus wants His disciples to welcome all, even the undervalued and the inconvenient as if we were welcoming Him.

I thought of my welcome mat and wondered how I extend His love to others. It starts by welcoming Jesus as a treasured guest. Will I permit Him to lead me, welcoming others the way He desires?
By Elisa Morgan

REFLECT and PRAY

When and how did you welcome Jesus into your heart? What effect should this have on the way you welcome others?

Dear Jesus, please make Your home in me as I make mine in You.

Strange But True by Lucie Winborne

- Uranus rotates on its side, appearing to roll around the sun like a ball, according to NASA. The most likely explanation for this unusual orientation is that it experienced some type of massive collision in ancient times.
- Bones found at Seymour Island indicate that 37 to 40 million years ago, penguins stood at a formidable 6 feet tall and weighed 250 pounds.
- World War II is known as "the blessed war" to many Icelanders because the country has that conflict to thank for its independence.
- PEZ candies were originally anti-smoking mints.
- More than 300 different species of bacteria are found in dental plaque.
- Jeannette Rankin became the first female member of Congress in 1916, four years before the 19th Amendment, granting women the right to vote, was ratified. ©2025 King Features Synd., Inc.

The Garden Bug Firecracker bush

This Southern shrub matures quickly, often displaying several trunks and growing as wide as it gets tall – up to 9 feet. Tubular, orange-red blossoms appear in the spring and keep blooming into the heat of the summer, attracting hummingbirds. In the fall, small, blackish-purple fruit appear, which the birds love. Firecracker bushes drop their leaves when temps get chilly, but the roots are hardy to 20 degrees Fahrenheit. – Brenda Weaver

• “For serving utensils used during picnic lunch, I have two large zip-top plastic bags. I label them ‘clean’ and ‘dirty.’ Anything used to touch raw meat goes in the ‘dirty’ bag. And serving spoons that can be used again to serve are in the ‘clean’ bag.” – M.A. in Arizona

• “Purchase a small cooler to use for large quantities of sides. I have a cooler advertised as fitting a six-pack of drinks. It’s perfect for holding macaroni salad at our summer beach gatherings with family. I do not use it for anything else, and it retains its cold temperature despite the heat (when everyone remembers to keep the lid closed, of course).” – R.R. in South Carolina

Now Here's A Tip by JoAnn Derson

• Many people have written in the tip to use two similarly sized bowls, one larger than the other, to serve cold salads at picnics. You add a few cups of crushed ice to the larger bowl, then nestle the smaller bowl into it, making it “chilled.” In any case, remember: Don’t leave food out longer than two hours.
* “Using plastic cups for a crowd? Remember to put out a permanent marker, colorful rubber bands or some other way to mark one’s glass. It’s sometimes hard to keep track when they all look the same.” – C.L. in Pennsylvania
• Remove all of the air from a plastic storage bag with a drinking straw. Slip the straw into the bag and close as much as possible. Then suck any air out through the straw, and quickly pull out and close in a single motion. Your leftovers will stay fresh longer, and foods may stack better in the freezer. ©2025 King Features Synd., Inc.

• If you are doing food platters for your barbecue, consider making several smaller platters instead of one large dish. The large ones are harder to store when you prep beforehand, but a better reason is that the items will not go stale/too warm/too cold quite as fast, and it's easy to switch out plates throughout the party.
