A Life in Four Words

With one mind and one voice you may glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. Romans 15:6

James Innell Packer, better known as J. I. Packer, died in 2020 just five days shy of his ninety-fourth birthday. A scholar and writer, his best-known book, Knowing God, has sold more than 1.5 million copies since its publication. Packer championed biblical authority and disciple-making and urged believers in Christ everywhere to take living for Jesus seriously. He was asked late in life for his final words to the church. Packer had one line, just four words: "Glorify Christ every way."

Those words reflect the life of the apostle Paul who, after his dramatic conversion, faithfully set about to do the work before him and trusted God with the results. Paul's words found in the book of Romans are some of the most theologically packed in the entire New Testament, and Packer sums up in close company with what the apostle wrote: "Glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ" (15:6).

Paul's life is an example for us. We can glorify (honor) God in many ways, but one is by living the life set before us and leaving the results in God's unchanging hands. Whether writing books or taking missionary journeys or teaching elementary school or caring for an aging parent—the same goal holds: Glorify Christ every way! As we pray and read Scripture, God helps us live with devoted obedience and keep our daily lives on track to honor Jesus in everything we say and do. By John Blase

Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Going Down a Rabbit Hole, One Memory Leads to Another and So On (Part 1 of 2)

Has it ever happened to you?
You start to think about one thing and that brings up a memory of another thing. Before you know it, one memory leads to another and rather quickly, you're way down a rabbit hole, reminiscing about someone, something, or a period in your life. Well, it recently happened to me.

The Great American Outdoor Show is coming to the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, PA, February 7-15, 2026.
The biggest outdoor expo in the entire United States, it encompasses 80-acres under roof and consists of displays from guides and gear/vehicle manufacturers from across the U.S., Canada, and around the world. In addition to offering seminars, programs, demos, and events for outdoorsmen, women, and youths. There is something interesting for everyone and you're hard-pressed to see it all in one day.

That got me thinking about going to the Eastern Sport, Travel, and Outdoor Show (the Great American Outdoor Show's predecessor) as a high school student in Feb. 1980 with my best friend Mike and his brother Steve.
It was my junior year and Mike was a year ahead of me and Steve was a year behind me. After walking around the show for 8-hours, we were hungry and had an invitation from my dad's sister, my Aunt Barb, to come to her house, just outside Harrisburg, for dinner.
Well, Aunt Barb was quite the outdoorswoman, but she never had any children and apparently didn't know about the metabolisms and appetites of teenage boys. When we sat down to dinner, after saying the blessing, Aunt Barb placed all the various food items out on the table, including a small covered Correlle ware baking dish containing a 1 lb. roast. Now, a 1 lb. roast probably cooks down to ¾ lb. and I still remember the very moment to this day. The baking dish happened to be placed in front of Steve and without saying a word, he removed the lid and proceeded to place the entire roast on his plate.
Now, Steve must have thought it was a single-serving container, but you could see the look of utter astonishment on Aunt Barb. I guess it was her assumption the small roast was going to feed all four of us. She did make a quick recovery though. She got up, went to the freezer, and got out a pack of hotdogs, so she, Mike, and I had some meat to go with our meals.

The ongoing challenge of feeding very active, growing teenage boys with their incredible appetites brought back other memories. Like how it was a fairly common practice for Mike and me to eat dinner twice. Mike's mom worked evenings at J.C. Penney's, so they always had dinner at 4 PM, shortly after getting home from school. We, on the other hand, typically ate dinner at 6 PM, based on when my dad got home from work. Mike and I, and it sometimes included Steve, would eat dinner both places, first at 4 PM and then again at 6 PM. Dinner #1 never seemed to affect our appetites for dinner #2. Looking back, I'm sure our parents knew what was going on, but they never said anything about our insatiable appetites. However, my dad did make the comment on several occasions after I went off to college (I was the oldest of 3 kids), their food bill was cut in half, even though he, my mom, sister, and brother were still at home.

It was one of those times, after eating a 4 PM dinner at Mike and Steve's, that I had one of the biggest practical jokes pulled on me I've ever experienced. After we ate, we decided to watch some television before heading over to my place for our 6 PM dinner. They had bought a new TV and after turning it on and settling into the couch and chairs, we decided we wanted to watch a TV show on a different channel. Well, we always took turns on who had to get up to change the channel and this time it happened to be mine. So, I got off the couch, made the ten-foot trek across the carpet, manually changed the channel to the show we wanted, and made my way back to the couch. When I sat down and turned around, the TV was back on the original show we didn't want to watch any more.
Mike and Steve immediately accused me of not doing my job. I was dumbfounded, but went back across the room and turned the TV to the channel we wanted. When I sat back down for a second time, the TV was once again back on the original channel. This went on two more times, and finally on the fifth attempt, I walked backward to the couch and was utterly amazed as the TV flipped itself back to the original channel. At that point, Mike and Steve couldn't contain their amusement of me falling for their practical joke, and through their laughing told me that their new TV had a remote control. They proceeded to show it to me and explained how it worked, since I had never seen or even heard of a TV remote at that point. They definitely pulled one over on me, that I'll never forget. Next week, I'll share some of our notable exploits out backpacking and ice fishing. We definitely made some great memories together!

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• This tip will change your life when peeling eggs: After you have hard-boiled your eggs, drain them and leave them in the pot. Put the lid on the pot and shake. Shake in all directions for up to a minute. The eggs practically slip right out of their shells. Just rinse and prep. ©2026 King Features Synd., Inc.

• “I feed my kitty cat outside on the back porch, but she eats a little at a time, and whenever she took a break, the ants would be all over her food. Now I serve my little princess in a teacup and saucer I found at a thrift store. I put the food in the cup and then put a little water in the saucer. The teacup sits in the water on the saucer. The ants can't cross the water to get to the food.” – O.W. in Arkansas
