Kovels

Antiques and Collecting by Terry and Kim Kovel

Q: I have an old iron scale that is marked "Detecto-Lette Junior" and measures up to 24 pounds. What can you tell me about it?

A: The Detecto-Lette Junior is a pediatric scale for weighing babies. Detecto was a brand of the Jacobs Bros. Co., founded by three brothers in Brooklyn, New York, in 1900. They made and repaired food service and medical scales. The company was acquired by another scale manufacturer in the 1980s. It is still in business today as Detecto and makes many types of scales, mostly digital, for home and industrial use.

There are several varieties of the Detecto-Lette, including a version with an enamel coating and one with a wicker basket for a scale pan. There are collectors who specialize in antique scales, and antique or vintage baby scales are also sought as decorations for nurseries. For more information about yours, you may want to contact a collectors' club like the International Society of Antique Scale Collectors (isasc.org).

TIP 1: If you like vases of fresh flowers, buy custom-cut pieces of glass to protect wooden table and chest tops from water stains.

TIP 2: Mirrors made before 1850 had thin glass. To judge the thickness of a mirror, hold a pencil point against the glass. The difference between the point and the reflection is the thickness.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER:

My Labrador mix, "Saucy," likes to roam over the fields around our home during the day. Yesterday, he arrived on our back step looking terrible. He was panting rapidly and drooling. He was irritable and didn't want to be touched. I called the vet and was told to wrap him in a blanket and bring him straight in. Saucy vomited a few times on the way to the vet and became very lethargic.

The vet thinks he got into a local farmer's fertilizer or herbicide, and Saucy is now at their hospital receiving fluids and supportive care. He's pulled through the night and hopefully will recover. In the meantime, I'm fencing off part of our yard to keep him near the house in the future. - James N. in upstate New York

DEAR JAMES: I'm glad you were able to get Saucy to the vet so quickly, and hope he recovers fully. Noticing the symptoms of poisoning in pets is so important to getting them help and appropriate care as fast as possible. Some poisons can cause progressive damage to the organs, so getting the veterinarian involved immediately is crucial.

Food, cleaning supplies, certain plants and many medications can make pets very ill if ingested. Pets can get into things without us knowing, despite our best efforts. That's why it's important to pay attention if you notice any unusual symptoms in your dog or cat.

Some symptoms are easy to spot, like excessive drooling, vomiting or diarrhea, trembling or lethargy. Others are more subtle, like a loss of appetite or a change in the color of their gums. If you notice any of these symptoms, or your pet seems off somehow, contact the veterinarian. ©2026 King Features Synd., Inc.

DONNA ERICKSON'S

BITES*Stack Caprese Salad With Couscous in a Tin Can

When it's time to prep a dinner meal this week, get your kids stacking the green, white and red layers of fresh basil, mozzarella and tomato. If they say that their culinary creation reminds them of winter's Christmas colors, guide them to a photo of the tricolor green, white and red Italian flag. You'll be on a fresh course into a new season of the year – and globally for that matter! This fun-to-make version using a surprise ingredient – couscous – is a tasty spring and summertime twist on Italy's traditional caprese salad.

I've always believed in using the right tools for the right job. In this recipe, it's four recycled aluminum cans. Once you've removed the labels and both ends of the four 7- to 8-ounce clean cans (I used 7-ounce diced green chilies cans and made sure that there weren't any sharp edges), gather the following ingredients to create a fancy-looking presentation:

STACKED CAPRESE SALAD WITH COUSCOUS

- Four aluminum 7- to 8-ounce cans with both ends removed
- Nonstick cooking spray or olive oil
- 2 medium ripe tomatoes, cut into 1/4-inch-thick slices
- 1 cup cooked couscous mixed with 2 tablespoons Italian dressing or prepared pesto
- 8 slices fresh mozzarella cheese
- Fresh basil leaves
- Parsley for garnish (optional)
- Balsamic vinegar

Spray with nonstick spray, or lightly wipe oil in the interior of the four cans. Set each can on end on a salad plate.

Trim the tomato and cheese slices to fit the interior of a can, then stack the individual portions in layers inside the can as follows: a tomato slice, 2 tablespoons of the couscous mixture, and a cheese slice. Repeat.

Cover with plastic wrap and press down on the stack gently with a jar or can that is slightly smaller than the opening of the can.

Remove wrap and slowly lift the can to reveal the layered salad.

To serve, garnish with a fresh basil leaf or a sprig of parsley.

Drizzle balsamic vinegar to taste. © 2026 Donna Erickson. Distributed by King Features Synd.

DEAR DR. ROACH: Please write about the correct amount of water that people should drink. There's so much misinformation! - E.N., MD

ANSWER: There's so much misinformation because a simple answer like "more is always better" is easier than a nuanced answer. It depends on your age, activity level, the temperature and humidity, any medications you might be taking, and whether your kidneys have any issues. However, the simplest answer, which is true for most people, is that your body has a built-in system called the thirst reflex to make sure that you're getting enough fluid. There are only a few times when you should override this system.

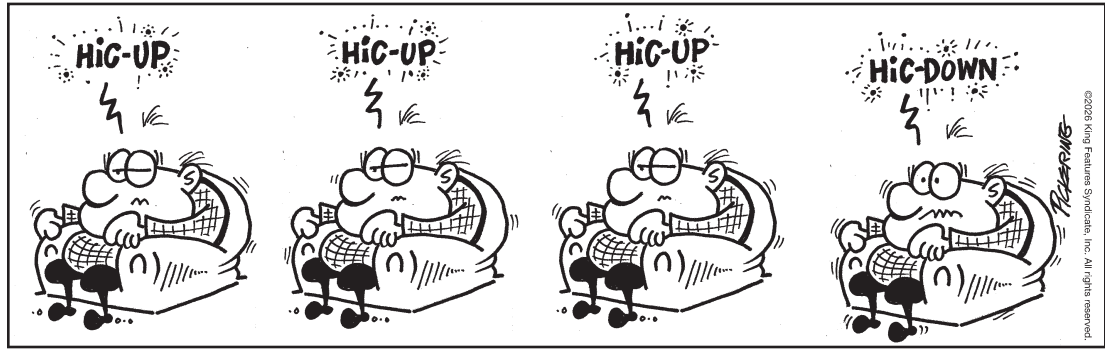

The most important exception is in older people who sometimes have a decreased thirst mechanism. This is particularly the case in people who live in long-term care facilities or those who have physical or cognitive disabilities. As such, reminders to drink a reasonable amount (1.6 liters or about seven 8-ounce glasses for women; 2 liters or eight 8-ounce glasses for men) of all liquids during the day can be helpful. (Alcohol, of course, isn't helpful and can be harmful to a person's fluid status.)

People who are taking diuretics don't need more water. In fact, excess water drinking while on most diuretics can lead to abnormally low sodium levels. Another way to tell if you're getting enough water is the volume and concentration of your urine. People should generally void every few hours, and the color of the urine shouldn't be dark.

Needing to urinate less frequently or having concentrated urine should be an indication for a person to drink a few glasses of water.

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you change the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters. Answers on page 8. ©2026 King Features Synd., Inc.

Founded in 1910, ELLWOOD Group began as a producer of high-quality steel and has grown into a trusted maker of crankshafts used around the world.

We build heavy-duty cranks that keep equipment running every day.

We start by melting and refining our own steel, then forge crankshafts to shape using powerful presses. From there, each crank is carefully machined and inspected to meet exact requirements. Our crankshafts are used in tractors, locomotives, pumps, compressors, ships, power generation equipment, and military vehicles like tanks.

For more than 100 years, ELLWOOD has been built on hard work, craftsmanship, and doing the job right—values we continue to pass on to the next generation.

Strange But True by Lucie Winborne

- Before the year 1000, all chess pieces were male figures or animals. The queen made her debut when the game was introduced in southern Europe.
- Actor Jimmy Stewart was rejected by the military after he was drafted, for being too thin.
- The concept of contact lenses dates back to Leonardo da Vinci, who described a vision correction method involving a water-filled glass hemisphere over the eye. Centuries later, British polymath Thomas Young created a lens prototype made of glass and filled with water based on another theoretical idea, by philosopher/scientist Rene Descartes.

- Soccer is known as "football" everywhere except America. The name refers not to the fact that it's played with the feet, but that it's played on one's feet, rather than on horse-back. ©2026 King Features

What's in Your Hand?

Then the Lord said to him, "What is that in your hand?" "A staff," he replied. Exodus 4:2. READ Exodus 4:1-5

A few years after I received salvation and dedicated my life to God, I felt Him directing me to lay down my journalism career. As I put down my pen and my writing went into hiding, I couldn't help feeling that one day God would call me to write for His glory. During my years of wandering in my personal wilderness, I was encouraged by the story of Moses and his staff in Exodus 4.

Moses, who was raised in Pharaoh's palace and had a promising future, fled Egypt and was living in obscurity as a shepherd when God called him. Moses must've thought he had nothing to offer God, but he learned that He can use anyone and anything for His glory.

"What is that in your hand?" God asked. "A staff," Moses replied. God said, "Throw it on the ground" (Exodus 4:2-3). Moses' ordinary staff became a snake. When he grabbed the snake, God turned it back into the staff (vv. 3-4). This sign was given so the Israelites would "believe that the Lord, the God of their fathers—the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob—has appeared to you" (v. 5). As Moses threw down his staff and took it back up again, I laid down my career as a journalist in obedience to God. Later, He guided me to pick up my pen again, and now I'm writing for Him.

We don't need much to be used by God. We can simply serve Him with the talents He's given us. Not sure where to start? What's in your hand?
By Nancy Gavilanes

REFLECT and PRAY

How can you use your talents to serve God? How can you use your resources to bless someone today?

Father God,
please help me to use my life to honor You.

"Gone for the Day" to a Secluded Treasure, the Ned Smith Center for Nature and Art

I'm sure you've heard the expression, "Fly Over States," referring to those parts of the Central United States that rightfully appear extremely rural and sparsely populated when viewed out an airplane window. Well, allow me to coin a phrase. There are parts of Pennsylvania I'll call "Drive-By Regions." Based on our established network of Interstates and State Routes going east/west (think the PA Turnpike and I-80) and north/south (such as I-79 and I-81), there are portions of our Commonwealth that we frequently drive around, but seldom travel through, unless you deliberately want to go there. Surprisingly, one of those places often overlooked is Northern Dauphin County. Now, you may know our state capital, Harrisburg, is located in Dauphin County; but most visitors never travel the east shore of the Susquehanna River north of US-22. Tucked away there in the extreme Northwest Corner of Dauphin County is a secluded treasure that I encourage everyone to visit sometime, the Ned Smith Center for Nature and Art in Millersburg, PA.

With my grandfather, John Berrier, having served as a PA Game Protector (Badge #6), my grandmother received a complimentary subscription to PA Game News long after his passing. I have fond memories of visiting Nan Berrier and paging through the many issues of PA Game News on the coffee table. In elementary school, I learned to read using "Fun with Dick and Jane," but I learned to love reading pouring through those copies of PA Game News. I would read the Game Protector's Field Notes first, but it was always the wildlife artwork on the cover and the illustrations throughout each issue that captivated my imagination and stoked my internal fire to spend as much time as possible outdoors and become a hunter. Many of those cover paintings and illustrations were created by E. Stanley "Ned" Smith. For generations of outdoorsmen/women, Ned Smith prints are the gold standard for wildlife art, burned in our memories.

Ned Smith (1919-1985) was born in Millersburg and proactively developed his art talent and passion for natural history before graduating high school. He initially worked as a machinist and made his first commercial sale, a PA Angler cover painting, in 1939. He and his wife Marie moved to South Carolina for a year for his first full-time art position, where he illustrated Samworth hunting and shooting books. After they returned to PA, Ned took a position as the staff illustrator for the PA Game News, a position he held from 1949-53. In 1953, he decided to strike out as a full-time freelance artist and outdoor writer. Over the years, he created over 120 PA Game News covers and in the 1960's, his highly informative and beautifully illustrated monthly column, "Gone for the Day," was the PA Game News' most popular piece. I recall learning from "Gone for the Day" and I proudly have Ned's 1971 book compiling those pieces. His freelance writing and artwork appeared in numerous books and magazines, and in 1983, he was commissioned to create PA's first state duck stamp. He continued to create fine art prints until his death.

Marie's desire to find a permanent home for Ned's artwork led to the idea of creating the Ned Smith Center for Nature and Art. The nonprofit was founded in 1993 and its permanent home opened on 500 acres in Ned's hometown of Millersburg in 2004. With some state funding and additional PA Game Commission financial support, along with many committed corporate and individual donors, the Ned Smith Center serves as a permanent gallery to display Ned's artwork and has an adjacent gallery to display other artists' works. There are over 12-miles of trails for hiking, biking, and horseback riding spread across the 500 hardwood acres, along with scenic views, a trout stream, a gift shop, an outdoor concert amphitheater, and research facilities for ongoing projects on owls, fungi, and other species.

The Ned Smith Center for Nature and Art has been a Supporting Member of the PA Outdoor Writers Association since 1996, but POWA never visited the Center over those 30 years. That changed on Friday afternoon, May 15, when Executive Director Lara Maupin and her capable staff hosted POWA for their Friday afternoon activities and evening BBQ. Lara led things off with an overview of Ned Smith's life and work, along with the history of the Center's origin. POWA Members were then treated to breakout sessions on: Project OwlNet, the Wild Mushroom Conservation and Education Area, an artwork archives tour, and two separate nature walks. Our visit to the Ned Smith Center for Nature and Art was definitely one of the highlights of the 2026 POWA 75th Anniversary Conference! Whether you love nature, the arts, or both, the Ned Smith Center for Nature and Art needs to be on your short list of special PA locations to visit yourself sometime! • I found six glass reusable bottles that can be run through the dishwasher. I store them in the fridge in a cardboard holder. I want the convenience of grabbing a bottle of water from the fridge, but I want to do something about plastic waste.

The Garden Bug
Prairie Sunflower
 Found throughout North America, this plant has had many uses in native American culture. Parts of it have been used as a food source, to make medicine for skin ailments and insect bites, and to make face-paint for ceremonies. The vigor of these plants in an area was seen as an indicator of whether the area sustained enough rainfall and could support crops.
