Don't Go Out on a Limb When It Comes to
Your Personal Safety This Hunting Season

The long wait is finally over. Since the last of PA's 2025-26 statewide deer hunting seasons ended on Jan. 19, 2026, avid PA deer hunters have eagerly anticipated for 8½ months the opening of our 2026-27 PA early archery deer season on Sat., Oct. 3, 2026. This year, for the first time ever, archery will run for 48 consecutive days, including Sundays, until closing on Fri., Nov. 20, 2026. Typically, PA sells over 335,000 resident archery licenses (which includes junior and senior combo licenses) and 20,000 nonresident archery licenses. So, over 350,000 archers may be heading afield this weekend, which is over 1/3 of all PA licensed hunters and surprisingly, more than the total number of hunting licenses sold in 36 states. Just how popular is bowhunting in PA? Well, PA consistently ranks #1 in archery license sales in the country at over 350,000 and that is roughly 10% of all bowhunters across the entire United States.

That is why you see 3D archery deer targets, blocks, and straw bales set up in people's yards all across our area and men, women, and youths have been out practicing with their compound bows, crossbows, recurve bows, and even some long bows in preparation for the archery season opener. Preparations haven't just included shooting numerous arrows or bolts at a target. Time has been spent inspecting clothing, gear, accessories, blinds, and tree stands to make certain everything is ready. While there are no definitive statistics, surveys reveal roughly 100,000 of PA's archery hunters will remain on the ground, hunting out of a natural or man-made blind, or employing a ghillie suit or other camouflage clothing. Doing the math, it reveals approximately 250,000 of PA's archery hunters will be hunting off the ground to avoid the deer's sight and smell by employing ladder stands, climbing sticks, hang-on stands, climbing tree stands, tree saddles, and even permanent wooden tree stands or elevated blinds on private property.

The inherent challenge with hunting off the ground is you may break the law. I'm not talking about any specific game regulations or motor vehicle statutes. (Though hunters have been known to exceed the posted speed limit in eager anticipation of getting to their favorite hunting spot.) I'm specifically referring to the Law of Gravity and the simple unavoidable fact that if your feet leave the ground to hunt deer by any means, you are liable to fall, and the higher you have climbed above the ground, the more violent the sudden impact will be when you eventually hit the ground after falling. Hopefully, every archer has taken time to thoroughly inspect any tree stand, climbing stick, or other means they plan on using to achieve an elevated perch for hunting deer. This includes looking for metal fatigue or damaging rust in any component; checking every cable, strap, rope, buckle, harness, and carabiner for serviceability; and making sure any wooden component has not rotted and any nails, wood screws, or bolts have not loosened. Many times, archery hunters are climbing in the dark before first shooting light and having a preventable "accident" in low light conditions potentially makes matters even worse. Even if you do not hunt, if you have a loved one, family member, or friend who does archery hunt from above the ground by any means, for your peace of mind, please remind them to inspect their gear and always be safe afield.

Now, if you are an archery deer hunter repeat after me: "No deer, not even the biggest buck, is worth being severely injured, hospitalized, paralyzed, or even killed for!" Tragically, every year several PA archery hunters end up with those very grave consequences from taking a nasty fall. Take it from someone who has fallen twice in his lifetime. The first came in high school when I was practicing with a homemade Baker climbing tree stand (my dad's coworker had made it for him) on a wet black walnut tree in our backyard. I slid down the tree's bole from 10-feet above ground when the climber didn't bite into the wet bark and ended up with extensive brush burns on my face, neck, and arms as I hugged the tree for dear life on my plunge. The second came in college when I had just climbed up 12-feet into a permanent wooden tree stand in the absolute dark and after hanging my rifle on a nail, a massive oak tree suddenly came crashing down without notice less than 10-feet behind me. I was so startled, I fell out of the stand. Fortunately, I didn't hit any rocks or logs when I struck the ground and it was a blessing I wasn't injured. Just about everyone who hunts from an elevated stand has a story about a fall they experienced. Your safety harness, climbing rope, attachment strap, and carabiner are your best friends when it comes to tree stands. Use them as they were intended whenever you hunt this season. Do it for yourself, those you love, and those who love you. Don't become a fall statistic!

and Great Outdoors!

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My mom, who's in her late 70s, told me that she wants a puppy. Her independent living community allows pets, but I think that she is a little too old to train and care for a new dog. How do I convince her to give up the idea? – Janine in Ocala, Florida

DEAR JANINE: I put this question to my friend, R.A. Morean, author of "Your Last Puppy: A Practical Guide for Seniors and Their Families." Her reply:

I get this question a lot. And after interviewing nearly a hundred parents and their adult children, I am sorry to say your mother makes a good case.

There is clear, empirical evidence that having a dog or puppy actively promotes physical, mental and cognitive health, especially for those 60 and older. There is no doubt having a puppy or dog will promote longevity and quality of life.

Lean into the idea and then explore the question together. Your challenges when speaking to your mother should include a discussion of a succession plan, and clear-eyed responses to a set of questions ranging from "What is my energy level?" and "Do I have mobility issues?" to "Is there a trainer close by?"

Make your list and sit down with her and discuss. It will soon become clear to both of you if a puppy will be too much work. Then you can move on to the step: if not a puppy, then an older dog. There are many places to find older, well-trained dogs.

In the last 15 years of my mother's life, she adopted an older dog. And when Lettice passed, she adopted again. If your mother's community also offers assisted living, I would approach them now, because 75% of assisted living communities allow dogs. Some facilities are "pet friendly," which means they allow pets. Others are "pet inclusive," which means they monitor food, schedule veterinarians and groomers to visit on-site, and staff are trained to keep an eye out for both residents and their pets.

Running from God

From deep in the realm of the dead I called for help, and you listened to my cry. Jonah 2:2

Our Daily Bread

READ Jonah 2:1-10

Julie and Liz kayaked off the coast of California, scouting for humpback whales. Humpbacks are known for being active near the surface, making them easy to spot. The two women got the surprise of their lives when one surfaced directly underneath them. An onlooker caught footage of their encounter that showed the large mouth of the whale dwarfing the women and their kayaks. After briefly going underwater, the women escaped unharmed.

Their experience offers perspective on the biblical account of the prophet Jonah being swallowed by a "huge fish" (Jonah 1:17). God had instructed him to preach to the Ninevites, but because they'd rejected God, Jonah didn't feel they were worthy of His forgiveness. Instead of obeying, he ran away and took passage on a ship. God sent a dangerous storm, and he was thrown overboard.

God provided a way to preserve Jonah from certain death on the high seas, sparing him the far-worse consequences of his actions. Jonah "called to the Lord" and God listened (2:2). After Jonah admitted his wrongdoing and expressed his praise and acknowledgment of God's goodness, he was—at His command—expelled from the fish "onto dry land" (v. 10).

By God's grace, when we acknowledge our sin and express faith in Jesus' sacrifice, we're spared the spiritual death we deserve and experience new life through Him. By Kirsten Holmberg

REFLECT and PRAY

When have you "run away" from God? How have you experienced new life through Jesus?

Dear God, I acknowledge my sin and thank You for providing for me a new life through Jesus.

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• To remove stubborn hard water deposits from a shower head (without removing it), do this trick: Add a cup of plain white vinegar to a zipper-top sandwich bag (or a larger bag with added vinegar to fit larger showerheads). Submerge shower head in the vinegar and draw bag up tightly around the stem. Use a rubber band to secure the plastic bag around the showerhead. Leave overnight. Remove, scrub and shower to release the deposits.

• Here's a tip for you waist-watchers out there: Wait until Halloween Day to buy the candy. The sweets won't be haunting you throughout October.

• "To keep sauces from splattering and dirtying the inside of your microwave, cover the food with a damp paper towel or a coffee filter." - E.C. in UT ©2026 King Features

Strange But True by Lucie Winborne

- According to NASA, autumn is "aurora season" because geomagnetic storms are about twice as frequent as the annual average during the fall.
- Swimmers, surfers and fishermen sometimes wear pantyhose under or instead of swimwear because their nylon mesh prevents many types of jellyfish stingers from touching the skin.

- Now's the time to install weather-stripping or caulk for the fall and the winter. To find drafts, try this trick. Light a taper candle and run it very slowly along the cracks of your windows. When you see the flame flicker, that's where you have a draft leak.
- If you have a sticky zipper, try running a candle along the zipper face, then zipping it up and down a few times.
